

THANK YOU

The 2010 Caxton Street Seafood and Wine Festival would like to thank everyone who attended our 2010 festival and all of the businesses, organizations and individuals who continue to offer support and enthusiasm for this annual event which benefits The Courier Mail Children's Fund. The festival is truly a group effort; one that includes dozens of sponsors, donors and volunteers.

This year's festival was made possible by Sirromet, Lion Nathan and XXXX, Schweppes, Jim Beam, Nova 106.9fm, 4BC, The Courier Mail, Brisbane City Council, Time Off, Coaldrakes, 4 Play DJs, Wanless, Worldwide On Line Printing, Light Sounds, Silent Events, Breathalyzer, Boardroom Solutions, Shooterz and The Pushworth Group and, of course, to all of our loyal and hard working volunteers - this festival would truly not exist without you.

Special thanks go to the Caxton Street Development Association Steering Committee who labour all year round to building business and add value to Caxton Street; to Sam Kyriakidis - our Media and Publicity officer and The Pushworth Group – who make our event happen on off side and rear of stage and especially to The Caxton Street Development Association President, Sarosh Mehta for his tireless work of unseen thousands of hours supporting the Restaurants and Venues on Caxton Street. Behind the scenes, Moshtix and their innovative ticketing system, St John's Ambulance, Qld Police, Asset Security, Red Frogs, CYA OHS and Fire Safety, the Taxi Council, Wilclean and the team of volunteers that installed, bumped in and out, looked after patrons, artists, crew and event workers by providing a willing smile and a helping hand where needed. Extra special mention goes to the 40 bands, 30 DJs, Jamie Dunn, Clint of My Kitchen Rules and energizer bunny Festival host Kath Griffin who entertained thousands of Queenslanders on a warm Autumn Sunday afternoon and the teams of production and crew who made everyone sound good - we are very grateful for you all.

The traders on the street – Caxton Hotel, Gambaros Restaurant, Hotel LA, Velvet Cigar, Casablanacas, Calypso Bar, Bohemia Bar, Mirasoul, Caxton Thai, Queensland Coffee, Kitty O'Shea's, Oz Kebabs, Cartel Coffee Bar, Halo, The Living Room and Red Lantern – from the bar staff 20 hours on their feet to the chefs – the hardest working people on the street – thank you for making the 2010 Caxton Street Seafood and Wine Festival a party that Queensland is proud of.

To the local businesses, chambers of commerce, universities and community groups to the national Media – Food and Wine specialists, publications, film crews, photographers and network group – your contribution to today's festival is just another example of the power of community – a community supporting the sick and disadvantaged children of Queensland.

To each of you, Queensland has loved their day on the street because of your work and for that we thank you. See you in 2011.
